

Master and Commander

Complete List of Sea Shepherd Voyages 1979 - 2006

Captain Paul Watson has over four decades of experience at sea, and more than two decades as Master and Commander of Sea Shepherd voyages to protect, defend, and conserve the Earth's wild oceans.

He earned his experience in the Norwegian and Swedish Merchant Marine in the sixties and early seventies, and served as First Officer on Greenpeace voyages between 1971 and 1976.

Since 1979, he has commanded 195 primarily offshore voyages in storms, ice packs, through canals and treacherous currents and dangerous confrontations without a single accident or a single injury to his crew or to anyone else. In fact, on many occasions he has commanded two ships at simultaneously, relaying orders to a subordinate Captain when it has been necessary to deploy two ships at once.

Captain Paul Watson is a sea captain in the truly traditional sense, where he is the master and commander of his own ships and is not dictated to by a corporate Board. He makes the decisions and he bears the full responsibility for his actions.

In 1994, Sea Shepherd acquired a miniature submarine Mirage. A spokesperson for the Canadian Navy publicly stated that no one in the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society knew anything about operating a submarine and it was ridiculous for Sea Shepherd to acquire one. He guaranteed that someone would be hurt.

Captain Paul Watson responded to the Canadian Naval spokesperson at the time by saying:

"Since World War II, the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society has boarded more ships, rammed more ships, engaged in more high seas confrontations and sunk more ships than the Canadian Navy. They are hardly in a position to presume to judge what we are competent or capable of doing."

Our record speaks for itself: Ten years later - still no injuries.

So that others may appreciate the depth of experience that Captain Watson has as a master mariner, the Society is posting on the website, the complete sailing record of Sea Shepherd Conservation Society voyages between 1979 and 2006.

Without a doubt the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society is the most experienced marine wildlife conservation interventionist organization in the world, and Captain Paul Watson is the single most experienced marine conservation sea captain on the high seas today.
